

COSMIC IROWG 2017 Student Report

Abi Komanduru

During my time at COSMIC IROWG 2017 in Estes Park CO, I got a chance to interact with various researchers who worked with COSMIC data. I met several researchers from around the world who worked on similar projects involving ionospheric measurements. I got a chance to present the current state of my research in the form of a brief presentation as well as a poster. During the presentations I was made aware as how varied the applications of the COSMIC data were as well as the advances in RO and about the upcoming COSMIC missions. During the poster session I got a chance to talk to various researchers who also work with ionosphere measurements using COSMIC data and get their opinion. I also got a chance to look at various other posters and projects as well.

During my time in Estes Park, I also got a chance to go around and enjoy the beautiful scenery as well as explore the Stanley Hotel and its haunted history. I am rally grateful for the opportunity to go to this informative event at this beautiful location.
